The Allen County Farm Service Agency (FSA), a division of the USDA, handles various conservation programs for agricultural landowners. Many programs like the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) are voluntary programs for agricultural landowners. Landowners can receive rent payments and cost-sharing assistance to establish long-term conservation practices on their eligible land. In most cases, the land must have been used to produce an agricultural product in the near past. There is also a limited sign up period for some of the programs. Please contact your local FSA office for additional information.

The Indiana Classified Forest and Wildlands program is an agreement between a landowner and the state, to be a good steward of the land and its natural resources. In return, the State of Indiana agrees to the reduction of the assessed value of the land to $1 per acre. Eligible land must be at least 10 contiguous acres and is placed in the program for 10 years. The land can be withdrawn from the program, but penalties and back taxes will apply. For additional information, the Indiana Classified Forest and Wildlands program is administered by:

Consulting foresters are self-employed, contractual based foresters that are hired by landowners to write up timber management plans. They are commonly used when a landowner cannot qualify for a state classified program or does not want the restrictions placed on their property that those programs can sometimes incur.

Additional consulting foresters can be found at: www.findindianaforester.org/find-a-forester/ The Allen County Assessor's Office does not endorse any forester over another one.

You must enroll in an actual timber management plan, not just submit to our office a bill of sale for your timber. Please contact the Allen County Assessor's Office with any questions.
